CHOICES

I have been thinking of you very much lately and wondering how you are getting along. I hope you are well and happy. I am still here, busy as ever.
I will write again soon.

ASSIGNMENT 47

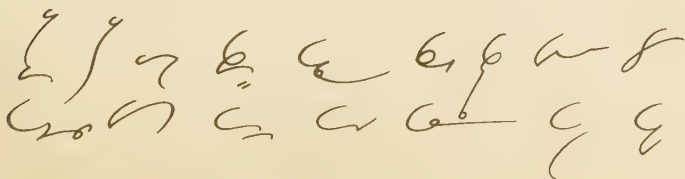

223. Drill on Previous Assignments

224. Many long words may be abbreviated by dropping the terminations. This principle is already familiar in longhand, as Rev. for Reverend; Phila. for Philadelphia. The extent to which this abbreviating principle may be applied depends upon the familiarity of the writer with the words and subject matter.

Reading and Writing Exercise

406. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy strength, with all thy mind, and with all thy power; and thy neighbour as thyself. This is the first commandment, which is the chiefest. The second is, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.

CHOICES

Life consists of choices. We must face the fact that we must forget the past and decide whether we shall build our lives¹ on the highest and finest things or whether we are going to be content to be drifters.

Many honest and² well-meaning people persist in being drifters. They fail to realize the fact that they have their lives before them³ and that the things they do now and the friends they select will affect their future.

There will always be two types of⁴ individuals in this world. There will be those who sail and those who drift. The drifters insist that they are content and⁵ it is evident by their conduct that they will not accomplish anything useful. They are not the people who⁶ undertake the biggest projects. The man who sails knows exactly what to do and knows how to adapt himself to⁷ every situation. He may come in contact with difficult problems; he may be put to many tests that⁸ will try his patience, but he will keep on trying.

Isn't it a fact that we can accomplish many things if we⁹ will just do our very best from day to day and invest the necessary time and effort?

An incident occurred¹⁰ in our school last fall that caused me to think about this matter very seriously. A girl came back to school¹¹ and enrolled as a student and was determined to finish her education. She is starting her second year¹² of work after having been out of school for exactly ten years. For most of us it would be rather difficult¹³ to adjust ourselves to this new situation and do our best work. The girl's guardians insisted that she leave¹⁴ school, and although this seemed to be an unjust request, she yielded without protest.

She has convinced them now, though, that¹⁵ an education is necessary and she is returning to school. She is a charming girl and very modest.¹⁶ It would have been an easy task for her to drift, but I am sure she was justified in returning to school.¹⁷ She says she will not rest until she has gone through college. She realizes that a college education will¹⁹ cost money but whatever it costs it will be a good investment. Here is a girl who is not content to drift.²⁰

I know another girl who acts as though she did not care to finish school and was going just because her parents²¹ requested her to. The girl could be a very good student, but she has little use for school. The decision she²² makes now will affect her whole future life.

The world today owes no man a living. It is up to every²³ individual to do the best he can. He must choose a goal and never rest until he reaches it. (457 standard words)

Gentlemen: Paper and ink are two lifeless mediums as they lie on the printer's shelves. But bring them together¹ through the medium of the printing press and you can touch the emotions of millions of human beings. You can² delight the eye with any or all the shades of the rainbow or portray the black of night sprinkled with thousands of³ stars.

Your business message can be just a lifeless piece of paper or it can be a good-looking piece of printing⁴—and printing good-looking advertising pieces is our specialty.

We know how to bring paper and ink together⁵ through the skillful use of type faces so as to give your sales message such a form that it will attract attention.⁶

Our direct-mail advertising service is complete. We outline the plans of your campaign, furnish you with⁷ suggested layouts, or, if you wish, we write the copy for your various mailing pieces. A sample of our work⁸ is enclosed. Everything will be handled and produced by us complete.

We shall be glad to supply you with further⁹ details upon request. Yours truly. (166 standard words)

WASTE LAND

On every continent in this world there exist vast tracts of what we call waste land. By waste land we mean places¹ that are not adapted to the growing of grain products on which man could exist. There has been in the past a good² deal of this worthless land in the west.

Even though these lands are unsuitable for farming they contain much wealth in³ the form of minerals. I know several farmers who thought their ground was worthless but then they discovered gold. What⁴ a glorious sensation they got when they handled the metal! Right then they began to worry about the best⁵ ways of packing the gold for the freight train. Many farmers made a fortune in this way. In the western part of this⁶ country there are a number of barren but very valuable tracts of land. Though no farm products can be grown⁷ there the land yields much gold and other precious metals.

This country is unfortunate for the great many swamp

lands⁸ which are of no value to anybody. The time will come when we shall need that land badly and someone will⁹ discover how to get rid of the excess water. When this is accomplished, it will be no trick to change this waste land¹⁰ into valuable farming soil. (206 standard words)

Dear Sir: I am sure I cannot emphasize too strongly the importance of a good English background. A business¹ man must exercise the greatest care in writing letters. He must be familiar with the proper use of business² terms so that no possible fault can be found with the letter.

The man who has had special training in business English³ is indeed fortunate. The man who has had training in our organization is doubly fortunate because⁴ he has had the advantage of studying under men whose work has entitled them to a high place in the⁵ business world. These men have a good deal of energy and their wide experience makes them ideal teachers.

The textbook⁶ used in our course is written by the head of our English department, who is well equipped to speak on business⁷ forms and doctrines. The English exercises have been planned so as to give the student the greatest opportunity⁸ to do creative work.

Very often students who have studied elsewhere have other English textbooks, and therefore⁹ do not care to spend any more money on new books. In cases like these, we are glad to make an exchange so¹⁰ as to save the student further expense.

Our school, as you know, is in the beautiful grounds of an old estate that¹¹ once belonged to an army officer who was executed in the last war.

As I said, a business man cannot¹² place too much emphasis on English—and what a glorious feeling he has when his letters go out correct¹³ in every detail! Come in and talk with us about our English course. Yours truly, (275 standard words)

Dear Sir: This letter will confirm our telephone conversation of yesterday. We shall be glad to have you send¹ the books by freight if they will get here in good shape so that they may be resold as new. You will be given full credit² for these books and we shall inform our bookkeeper to that effect.

If the dealer exercises good care in handling³ the books when they reach him, we are always glad to have him return them for credit or exchange them for some⁴ other item that we have in stock.

We cannot emphasize too strongly that we want to do all we can to help⁵ you. Yours truly, (102 standard words)

Dear Madam: Thank you for your letter of August 29. Before filling the order, we thought it best to write¹ you about your account. I wonder whether you realize that your previous account for $230² is now overdue nearly four months. Perhaps it was overlooked, although we have written you several³ times about it.

We like to help our friends by giving them credit as long as they need it, but we want to feel⁴ that they are working with us and will do everything to take care of the account. I am sure you realize⁵ that we cannot meet our own obligations if our friends will not meet theirs.

Please remember that we want your business⁶ and that we try to merit it by the quality of the goods and the service we give. We hope, therefore, that you⁷ will send us your check for the $230 that is past due. Upon its receipt, we shall give your⁸ new order immediate attention.

We know we can depend on you to do all you can to settle this account.⁹ Very sincerely yours, (185 standard words)

A RACE WITH THE CLOCK

The other day I was reminded of an alderman I once met in the subway. I admired the man because¹ he was a good speaker and had a fine command of words. He was very much in demand as an after-dinner² speaker and at one dinner that I attended he spoke about "A race with the clock."

He said he was watching³ a race in the suburbs and he saw everyone with his eyes on a huge clock. The runners realized the value⁴ of time and their ultimate goal was to save a fraction of a second. This alderman stressed the value of time⁵ and insisted that time once lost can never be regained. Minutes are as precious as diamonds and yet, I am sorry⁶ to admit, thoughtless individuals do not seem to mind wasting them.

It is needless to say that things never⁷ get done if we only intend to do them. Once we set out to accomplish something nothing should alter our⁸ course. Everyone has the same number of hours at his command, but some people make these hours pay richer dividends.⁹ Arnold Bennett once said that time is truly a daily wonder. You wake up in the morning with twenty-four hours¹⁰ of time. It is yours and unless you use it you are the loser. Moreover, you cannot draw on the future. You¹¹ cannot use your allotted time in advance.

Life is a great adventure. There are so many things we should attend¹² to, but our task is hopeless—we have only twenty-four hours a day in which to work. It is an admitted fact¹³ that our lives very often are too busy, but we must not submit to that fact as it might easily cause our¹⁴ ultimate ruin.

We must learn to make the most of our time. We must not spend our time reading worthless books and pretending¹⁵ to enjoy them. Take the advice of great educators, who advocate setting aside fifteen or twenty¹⁶ minutes each day for the reading of classics. If possible, extend that time beyond the fifteen or twenty minutes¹⁷—spend a half hour or an hour each day. You will never regret it.

How few people ever stop to take an¹⁸ inventory of their leisure time to see what they do with the hours that are not spent sleeping, working, or eating. What¹⁹ becomes of all these hours after five or six, when work is over? Are they used in a commendable way or must²⁰ we admit that we let them drop into the past without their having added one thing to improve our mind or body?²¹

Any plan of using one's spare moments that will increase his knowledge or broaden his outlook is a good plan.²² But how many hours and minutes are wasted every day in fruitless and useless conversation and in profitless²³ amusement!

If we want to be a success, we must make a profitable use of our spare time—we have no²⁴ alternative. (482 standard words)

Dear Madam: You are a very important person to me, for you are among the very few people who have¹ not ordered anything from us during the past year. I must admit I am wondering why.

Your experience² with us has surely proved that we bring to you the very latest styles and that our goods are the finest obtainable.³ You know that our prices are the lowest in the country. That is the opinion of countless thousands of women⁴ who demand the best for the least money.

In view of this, you can see that I am rather concerned for the loss⁵ of your good will. If we have failed to satisfy you in some way, give me an opportunity to make whatever⁶ adjustments are necessary. If, though, you have not visited us simply because you have not had occasion⁷ to buy from us, please put our minds at ease by mailing the enclosed card.

We shall, naturally, continue to⁸ send you our monthly fashion bulletin. I believe that our summer issue, which appears in April, will be more⁹ helpful than ever, for we have added a number of new departments that will greatly increase our opportunities¹⁰ for being of service to you.

May I ask a personal favor? Please answer the two questions on the¹¹ enclosed sheet and return the sheet to me in the enclosed envelope. Just this small effort on your part will be a¹² wonderful aid in my endeavor to be of service to you. Cordially yours, (254 standard words)

Gentlemen: Thank you for your recent cash order, for which we are indeed grateful. I wonder whether you wouldn't¹ care to take advantage of an open account with us. I have spoken to the credit manager and it will² be perfectly satisfactory to him.

You may wish to deal with us for some reason on a strictly cash basis,³ but we want you to know that your credit is good with us. Yours truly, (72 standard words)

Dear Sir: The package containing a fountain pen and two pencils reached my headquarters this morning. Inasmuch as¹ these things were marked for my attention, I examined them personally, but I could find nothing wrong with the pen.² Therefore, I am returning it to you with the request that you give it another trial. I shall have the two pencils³ replaced. I know you will find them indispensable in your work.

As you have ordered these pencils from time to⁴ time, you will be glad to hear that we are now selling them for $1.40 a dozen. We are selling⁵ them at this low price as we intend to discontinue their sale after December 31. The pencils⁶ have been selling rapidly since we made this special price, but we still have a small supply left.

The man who has charge⁷ of the supplies in the state legislature bought a gross of the pencils. He said that the legislators and the⁸ members of the investigating committees liked these pencils very much.

If you care to have any of these⁹ pencils and will send us a remittance for as many as you want, I shall see that you get them. Very truly¹⁰ yours, (201 standard words)

Dear Madam: You say that the charges for delivery of your paper have been high. Some time ago you asked us¹ to send this paper by the Independent Express Company, which we did. I have investigated the cost² of sending this paper by freight and I find the rates very reasonable. Perhaps in the future it may be³ wise to send all this paper by freight.

Enclosed you will find several samples of paper we received recently.⁴ Your husband asked me to mail these to him as soon as they came in. Yours truly, (92 standard words)

Dear Mr. Jones: My client wants me to institute a suit against the man who wrecked his car. I wonder whether¹ you would be good enough to investigate the case for me, so that I may have sufficient facts to present to² the jury.

The mishap took place on Fifth Avenue, and the car was driven by a young man who is a junior³ in college. Naturally, I must have all the facts about the mishap, the statements of the various witnesses,⁴ and all that sort of thing. As you are an experienced investigator, I am sure you will know what facts⁵ are necessary to make out a case.

If you will come in to see me soon, perhaps we can arrange for your fee.⁶ Also, I should like your advice on some minor points having to do with the trial of the case before a judge and⁷ jury. Very truly yours, (145 standard words)

Dear Reader: For many years we have been aware of the fact that book readers intend to join the Book Club but then¹ put it off and soon forget about it. In order to spur you on to join immediately, we are going² to make it very much worth your while: If you will join the Book Club within the next thirty days, we will present you³ with a copy of "The First Inauguration." The book is bound in beautiful leather and is printed on the⁴ finest paper obtainable. It deals with the days when our country was first fighting for its independence. It⁵ tells how the Constitution was framed and how the legislative and other branches of our Government were⁶ organized. Likewise, it tells of the troubles the fathers of our country had during the first days that they started to⁷ legislate. The framers of our Constitution gave great thought to new legislation.

A copy of "The First⁸ Inauguration" will be sent to you if you sign the enclosed card and return it within thirty days. Sincerely⁹ yours, (181 standard words)

Dear Mr. Smith: Frankly, as one business man to another, I have come to ask a small favor of you. I wonder¹ if you would be willing to furnish us with the names and addresses of four or five friends who you believe would² like to find out about the kind of banking services we try to give to the people of our city.

I do³ not mind telling you that we should place these names on our list, sending them the printed matter that we issue, and thus⁴ try to make them our friends. Of course we should not think of using your name in this connection unless you are willing.⁵

Would it not be a source of satisfaction to you if you could put on that list the name of someone to whom a⁶ bank account would be a blessing—someone who has not yet been awakened to the importance of laying aside⁷ a little out of every month's pay for that rainy day that is sure to come? Thus your service to our bank may become⁸ a real service to a fellow citizen.

May we have the pleasure of hearing from you soon? Yours truly, (179 standard words)

215. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Sir: In a week or two I shall send you one of the most valuable certificates you have ever¹ received. I should like to have an opportunity to present this to you personally, but for the time being² that is out of the question. If you can't use it, sooner or later, please tear it up. It will be little or no³ trouble for you to fill out the two or three questions asked on that certificate and return it to this office.⁴ As soon as we receive the certificate, we shall mail you one of the fine sets of books we are giving as gifts⁵ to our friends.

During more than forty years, our publication, "The Review," has been a stronger attraction to⁶ distinguished men and women than any other publication in the world. Some of these people have been on our list for more⁷ than a quarter of a century. I am able to say that at least fifty have received our publication⁸ for thirty-five years.

When we tell our friends that we are going to do a certain thing they know our promise⁹ can be depended upon because we have always kept our word. Yours truly, (193 standard words)

Dear Sir: Thank you for your letter of several days ago in regard to the matter of desks. I am sorry¹ we cannot send you these desks for a week or two, as we are entirely out of stock of the model you want. I² have written to the factory in reference to the matter of getting more desks and they promise us that in³ a day or two they can begin work on them.

The demand for these desks is becoming more and more pressing and we⁴ are having difficulty filling orders. We were more or less surprised that this model should sell so readily.⁵

That is to say, we knew it was a fine model, but we had rather expected our model 116⁶ to sell more rapidly.

If you are in urgent need of these desks, why not try the 116? It ought to⁷ be satisfactory, as there is very little difference between that model and the one you requested⁸ in your letter. You have little or nothing to lose by giving this 116 model a trial—we shall⁹ be glad to have you try it at our expense.

While we are on the subject of desks, I should like to have you examine¹⁰ the enclosed catalogue. You ought to have one of these catalogues, as it shows the models that are used in¹¹ different offices throughout the country. Very truly yours,

Dear Sir: Your boy has probably heard quite a bit about our school this summer from his new friends in camp, and I am¹ sure you too will want to know something of the school those boys represent.

Here each boy is an individual whose² progress is limited solely by the effort he is willing to put forth. Each boy's studies are fitted to his³ needs. The classes are small, averaging about twelve boys to each teacher, so that each individual recites⁴ several times daily. In this way the teacher can keep in close touch with all the students.

The new building just opened⁵ is the last word in modern equipment. It has one of the most beautiful swimming pools to be found in any⁶ school. The school rooms have plenty of light and air and sunshine. We encourage all boys to take part in sports. We have⁷ excellent coaches for football, baseball, and other sports.

Come in to visit us and see for yourself what a fine⁸ school we have here. If you can't find time to come in, just return the enclosed card and we will send you one of our⁹ catalogues. We should like to have you leaf through it. Very truly yours, (191 standard words)

Dear Sir: You ought to be here in a week or two in order to see what we are placing on the market. I am¹ of the opinion that you will have many suggestions on the subject of our advertising, and I should like² to have you work hand in hand with me. My son-in-law will be at the office in a day or two, and we can get³ his advice on the question.

One of the best suggestions I have received so far is that we mail one of our⁴ catalogues to the people on our mailing list. We had not planned on doing this, but I know these people will be glad⁵ to see them. We have prepared the catalogue in such a manner that it will be little or no trouble to order⁶ any of the goods listed.

Please wire me immediately in reference to the matter, as I should like⁷ to know what to expect. Yours truly, (146 standard words)

Dear Mr. Jones: I am sure you can realize how pleased I was the other day when the manager of my¹ department complimented me on my last year's record. The credit, though, is not mine, for without the assistance which² you and my other clients have given me I should never have been able to make such a good showing. I am³ planning, with your assistance, to accomplish even more this year.

I want to increase my usefulness to my clients⁴ and to continue to help them plan their investments wisely and safely. Very truly yours, (96 standard words)

Gentlemen: I have never before had an opportunity to address a group of manufacturers, and¹ I confess I am enjoying the novelty of it. In a sense, though, I think I can claim to be one of you,² as I have had occasion to get first-hand knowledge touching your particular industry. Some years ago I³ set up house as a manufacturer and local merchant, and I did get a good deal of experience, but⁴ that is all.

I soon discovered that if a manufacturer wants to pay the mortgage and eat three times a day⁵ he has to hustle out and get business and collect bills, and I observed that I was getting very hungry. Though⁶ I did not neglect the business for a second, it went from bad to worse. But in this day and age the business⁷ experience was worth every penny it cost me. I have never since had the urge to invade your field, but I feel⁸ I am speaking about a subject on which I have first-hand knowledge.

To anyone who has not been negligent⁹ in reading the literary efforts of present-day writers, it is quite plain that there is no limit to what¹⁰ we may expect. Modern methods and modern machinery have greatly increased production and added to the¹¹ luxuries that we may now enjoy. These methods have built up a commercial nation second to none. Our literature¹² tells us that in the days gone by history used to confer its choicest favors upon the soldier, but¹³ now it confers them upon the business man. There are some who wonder whether this is for the best; who wonder whether¹⁴ we haven't simply built up a machine without a heart. I have heard this view expressed in negotiations¹⁵ of many kinds, and we should recognize that it exists. For my part, I think it is not the proper point of view¹⁶ to take. Some people are always afraid of something new and big. To them anything that is big is bad.

Today¹⁷ we are moving at a rapid rate—it may be too rapid. Our messengers may be found all over the world, spreading¹⁸ our goods wherever they go. At the rate we are going, the time will come when we will be able to go no¹⁹ further—we will have reached our limit. It is well to have a goal, but we must not reach it too quickly—and we must²⁰ be careful that we do not fall in an attempt to overreach it. (412 standard words)

Dear John: I am sorry it will be necessary for you to appear in court on Monday to defend the young¹ man who is charged with having committed a misdemeanor.

You need not feel bad about it, though, as I, too, will² have to be in court on that day. One of my best clients was haled into court because of his negligence in driving³ a car, and he wants me to take care of the litigation for him. From the facts he has given me, he himself⁴ was not negligent and, therefore, I should have no difficulty in trying the case. The plaintiff is a wealthy⁵ local manufacturer and has hired several fine lawyers to handle his side of the litigation,⁶ but I do not think he will get anywhere.

I hope you are successful in your efforts to defend the young man⁷ who is held on a misdemeanor charge. Be sure to keep a careful record of what goes on, so that you may appeal⁸ to the higher court if the case is decided against you.

In view of the fact that we cannot meet this Monday,⁹ why don't you have dinner with me on Tuesday? Yours truly, (190 standard words)

Dear Mr. Jones: Beginning at noon today, we have a new manager of our local office. When you have¹ recovered from the shock, I shall tell you his name. If you will look closely at the end of this letter, you will find it² attached thereto. Perhaps you have guessed it anyway.

Since last May, I have divided my time here at headquarters³ between learning my job and keeping in touch with you and the rest of the men. I have had every phase of the business⁴ under observation, and I have not neglected any branch of our work. I have drilled myself in the routine⁵ of the organization, and I can tell you in detail the work of every man on the force, all the⁶ way from the messenger to the head accountant. I do not intend to tell you how to go about your business⁷—you know that best. Start the ball rolling now and keep it rolling. It is now December. By next December or⁸ January, when the new manager makes his report, we shall know whether he is worth his salt.

I ask your assistance.⁹ Cordially yours, (183 standard words)

A TRIP TO MEXICO

There is a saying, "What does one know of America who knows only the United States?" To the south lies¹ Mexico, which is undoubtedly much less known to the people of the United States of America than such² an important country should be.

As soon as one arrives on the other side of the border, he perceives a striking³ difference in the dress and the manner of living of the people. In the crowded cities we find that the⁴ people have kept step more or less with civilization. In the native villages, however, the poor people⁵ still live exactly as the natives lived many years ago.

Many private homes are made of a very poor grade⁶ of wood, and when one is invited to go inside it is difficult to decide whether it is more comfortable⁷ lying on the floor or on the bed. As the visitor proceeds further into the country, he observes⁸ the peculiar methods that prevail in the farming sections. Most of the natives are engaged in some sort of farming⁹ from which they derive enough money to meet their immediate needs. Many of their products are sent to the¹⁰ United States and England. Our trade with Mexico amounts to millions of dollars. It is easy to get the¹¹ produce of Mexico to the United States, of course, as there are many railroads in operation from that¹² country to this. Some of the products are sent f.o.b. the different United States post offices. Most of¹³ the products are paid for immediately.

All the natives of the different villages await the arrival¹⁴ of the train and crowd around it when it arrives.

There is a loud yell from the children as a man tosses them¹⁵ a penny. The lucky child who recovers the penny proudly displays it and waits for another opportunity¹⁶ to repeat his success.

There is a man waiting there who will be delighted to carry your trunk down the¹⁷ boulevard. There is no use looking for an excuse to refuse to let him carry it, because there is no taxi¹⁸ available to take the trunk for you. This strong man is cheerfully paid the small amount he asks for his¹⁹ services. Men and women stand near the railroad and sell bright blankets and provide the visitor with magazines, books,²⁰ etc. You soon learn that the price of these things is slightly more than you care to pay, and you try to prevail upon²¹ them to accept less. Repeatedly they refuse, until the train starts moving. Then they decide to let you have²² it at your price.

The food these people balance in baskets on their heads does not look inviting. However, the natives²³ have a good appetite, and pure food means nothing to them.

Some of the natives do not hesitate to trade with²⁴ a live chicken. It is not an unusual sight to see a native march through a train in all his glory with²⁵ a frightened chicken, weighing far more than a pound, under his arm. The railroad depot is almost the equivalent²⁶ of one of our food markets.

The "Main Street" presents a peculiar appearance. On each side there is a wall in²⁷ which every so often there is a door. It would undoubtedly be confusing for us to find our own private²⁸ residence, as there are no numbers on the doors. On the "Main Street" much trading takes place. All trading is on a cash²⁹ basis, and there are no unpaid bills. The seller keeps no memorandum of his purchases and sales.

The natives³⁰ are friendly people, and no matter how crowded their houses may be, they do not use this fact as an excuse to³¹ refuse food and shelter to those who are related to them.

Mexico has been accused of being a country³² full of bandits. There are a few bandits living in the hills, but most of the natives lead a quiet life and are³³ polite and friendly to the visitor. (667 standard words)

Dear Sir: I am indeed sorry that it will not be convenient for me to see you on Christmas Day, as we had¹ originally planned. As you know, the Pacific Insurance Company holds a reunion for its officers² every year at this time, and it is customary for each office to cooperate and send delegates.³ This year it is my privilege to go as a delegate, and I was pleasantly surprised when I received⁴ the offer.

Elaborate plans have been made, and there are several capable men as the principal speakers.⁵ I am sure I will receive practical advice on how to handle some of our patrons.

I have developed a⁶ liking for flying, and whenever possible I travel by plane. Obviously this practice saves a great deal⁷ of time. Mr. Allen will be a passenger on our plane, and he will occupy the seat in front of me.

I⁸ am anxious to talk with him about the financial situation of the Brown case in which he was one of the⁹ plaintiffs. I took the liberty of attending the preliminary hearings, at which time I met Mr. Allen's¹⁰ lawyer. This lawyer is considered one of the most brilliant and clever men in the state.

It is obvious¹¹ that the jury was prejudiced and partial, or it would have decided in favor of Mr. Allen. Cordially¹² yours, (241 standard words)

Dear Sir: Since you are not yet familiar with the work we are doing in your state, I will write you at some length on¹ the points that will, in all probability, cause you trouble. I am confident that you are capable of handling² the work, but there are several men who will do their best to obstruct every move you make.

I have written³ our agent on the Pacific Coast to discuss with you the premiums on the different policies we offer.⁴ I am sure he will be able to give you at least a partial list of names that will help you.

I imagine⁵ the most difficult part of your job will be to convince people, in simple language, that they should carry insurance.⁶ People feel persecuted when they are asked to insure their lives or their property. People offer all kinds⁷ of ridiculous excuses for not buying an insurance policy. However, it is not so difficult⁸ to sell insurance as it was a few years ago. At that time our company had just been established and⁹ people had no assurance that it was financially sound. Sincerely yours, (193 standard words)

Dear Sir: I am sending you today a parcel containing material which gives the principal facts relative¹ to our new "practical insurance policy." This policy is very popular in the South, and I² imagine it will soon become popular in other parts of the country. The premiums for this policy³ are very low. Sincerely yours, (65 standard words)

Dear Mr. Jones: The dress patterns which you enclosed in the parcel you sent us were badly torn. It is obvious¹ that the patterns were not carefully handled. As these patterns were the property of our best customer, we shall² have to ask you to make immediate adjustment.

I assume this damage occurred while the parcel was in the³ hands of the post office, and if you could send us a certificate showing that the parcel was given to them⁴ in good shape, we shall be glad to take care of the matter ourselves.

In the future, when it is necessary to⁵ send patterns by mail, please be sure that they are carefully wrapped. Some of the patterns cannot satisfactorily⁶ be duplicated. Cordially yours, (126 standard words)

Gentlemen: Thank you for your cooperation in sending us so promptly your check for $189.¹ This payment will enable us to fill the order of April 16 without further delay. No time² has been lost, as the shipment was packed and ready to be shipped when your check arrived.

As our organization carries³ no accounts, I wonder if you would be good enough to enclose a check with each order. You realize that⁴ we could not offer our goods at such low prices if we had to carry a large bookkeeping division. Cordially⁵ yours, (101 standard words)

TIMEPIECES

In a recent edition of a local journal I noticed a headline to an advertisement which read, "Clocks¹ for cattle." This title was so prominently displayed and so unusual that I proceeded to read the² whole advertisement. I discovered that it was a quotation from a letter dated 1816. The author³ of this letter had indicated his intention to give a certain number of cattle in exchange for⁴ a few clocks.

Although we would not today consider giving a cow for a clock, we must realize how⁵ absolutely essential and prominent a part clocks play in our everyday lives. Numerous changes have been made since⁶ the marvelous invention of the clock, but it still renders the same service to mankind—it tells us the time.

We⁷ have definite information that clocks similar to ours were used in the ninth century, but they were found only⁸ in the splendid homes of the wealthy. Today clocks are an absolute necessity in every home, and frequently⁹ you will find three or four clocks in the poorest of homes. There was one important omission on the early¹⁰ clocks—there was no minute hand to indicate the exact time. Later, the addition of the minute hand and still¹¹ later the second hand made it possible to determine accurately the time of the day.

In my estimation,¹² a clock is the most human of all furniture, especially the older clocks, made hundreds of years ago.¹³

The clocks manufactured in the factory can never take the place of those made by the old masters, who showed¹⁴ their enthusiasm for their work by putting their whole heart and soul into it. The old master exercised great¹⁵ care in the formation of each piece that went into the clock, and the separate parts were carefully put together.¹⁶ There were no local stores in those days that handled the sale of clocks, and there was very little competition.¹⁷ A man had to peddle his clocks from house to house until he covered the entire territory.

A person who¹⁸ appreciates old clocks will enjoy examining the clock that is a prominent part of the home of our first¹⁹ President. It stands in the hall and, without complaint, keeps ticking off the seconds, minutes and hours. A notation²⁰ was made on a sheet of paper in the clock, which gives the information that it was to be removed for repairs,²¹ but that order must have been cancelled, as the repairs were not made. Frequently the clock loses a total of three²² or four minutes, and that is the only intimation it gives of its age. But then, some watches that have just been²³ manufactured are not in as good condition and lose much more time than this. (473 standard words)

Dear Sir: I received permission from the local corporation to build a house on the vacant lot. The corporation¹ gave me this permission with the condition that the house must have a stone foundation. I can sympathize² with their attitude, and I know this stone foundation will be of benefit to all concerned.

If I am absent³ from the office on Monday, I shall be in the commissioner's office making all the essential arrangements.⁴

The house will be in an ideal spot, just three blocks from the local station. The post office renders some splendid service⁵ in this part of the town.

I hope to be able to begin work very soon. When I am ready, I shall get⁶ in touch with you. Cordially yours, (125 standard words)

234. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Sir: On January 19 the manager sent his resignation to the secretary of our¹ organization. Mr. Brown, who had been a salesman for many years and who had charge of the publications issued² by this company, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

One of Mr. Brown's first actions was to put his³ signature to a new lease. This new lease will provide the space we have needed for a long time. Besides the manager⁴ and all the people belonging to his staff, everybody in the credit division will move to the new⁵ quarters. The shipping division, however, will remain where it is. Heretofore all these divisions were on the⁶ same floor, and the employees could scarcely move from desk to desk without pushing into somebody.

The next time your⁷ salesman is in this territory, why not have him make it a specific point to come in to see our new offices?⁸ Yours truly, (163 standard words)

Dear Sir: Your absence from our store for the past few months has been noted, and it has been a long time since we have received¹ any orders from you. We feel that this silence is a significant indication that you have become² dissatisfied with our service or our goods. As you used to be one of our best customers and friends, we are anxious³ to have a talk with you and do whatever we can to regain your confidence.

If you will specify the⁴ time that will be most convenient for you, I should like to have my secretary call on you and discuss the matter.⁵ He will be there punctually at whatever time you set.

Herewith you will find an envelope for your⁶ convenience in writing me when my secretary may see you. Yours truly, (132 standard words)

Dear Sir: After the unpleasant dealings which a number of our customers had in ordering our publications,¹ we have decided to send out a salesman for the remainder of the year.

Hereafter all orders will be² handled through the main office.

As you will recall, a man representing himself as one of our salesmen went through³ your territory and made many liberal offers to pupils and their parents. He was no longer employed⁴ by this organization, as his resignation had been demanded several months before. We knew nothing⁵ about his actions, however, until our secretary started to receive letters stating that magazines⁶ had not been received. As soon as we discovered what had happened, we asked every one to specify the publications⁷ ordered, and we put all names on our mailing list. We are pushing charges against this man, and he will be⁸ prosecuted. Now the matter has been settled to everybody's satisfaction. This sort of thing can happen⁹ anywhere to anybody, and therefore we should be grateful that we were able to straighten matters before¹⁰ anyone really suffered. Cordially yours, (207 standard words)

Dear Sir: Next month this country will celebrate Mark Twain's birthday, and we are planning to take part in the celebration.¹ In his honor, we are sponsoring an essay contest. We are calling on you as principal of the school² to cooperate with us. We should appreciate it very much if you would see that this is announced to all³ the pupils in the school, as they will be the only ones qualified to write in this contest. The contest will be⁴ announced beforehand in the daily papers and other publications, but pupils do not always read these⁵ publications. Pupils will be given specific directions when they leave their signature and address at our office.⁶ Anyone wishing to compete in the essay contest should be punctual and call on us soon. The secretary⁷ will give each candidate all the necessary information. He will also give him a pamphlet containing⁸ all the rules governing the contest.

The winner will receive a complete set of the works of Mark Twain. This⁹ set will be a valuable addition to the library of any pupil. In addition to this main¹⁰ prize, there will be two other fine prizes. The second prize winner will receive $10 in gold and the third prize winner a fountain¹¹ pen. All papers must be in our hands on the day specified in the rules. Yours truly, (235 standard words)

238. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Sir: Thank you for your very frank letter of January

5 regarding your account with us for¹ $5,000. Everybody is up against it at some time or other. We have been ourselves. That is exactly² why we are going to help you.

Don't worry about that $5,000, even though it is somewhat past due.³ Forget it for 90 days. Meanwhile, we are going to ask you to sign a note covering that period. If⁴ you can pay it within that time, well and good. Our own financial condition is excellent, and a few thousand⁵ dollars will not worry us particularly at this time.

We wouldn't do a favor like this for everyone,⁶ but we know that you are all right. We want you to build up a good business, and we are going to help you.

It⁷ is a pleasure to have people know that we sell service as well as merchandise. Just sign the note and return it⁸ to us promptly. Yours truly, (163 standard words)

Dear Sir: Sometime ago someone in your office asked us the whereabouts of the salesman who sold your client¹ several thousand dollars' worth of machinery which turned out to be useless. At first we decided to have nothing² whatsoever to do with this case, but this same incident occurred again recently, and this time the victim³ was one of our best friends. We are now determined to prevent similar occurrences, and we are willing⁴ to offer $500 for information concerning the whereabouts of this individual.

We⁵ received a letter from somebody in your city suggesting that he was somewhere in Chicago, but somehow⁶ we could place little confidence in that information. We are convinced that he is elsewhere.

Our offer of⁷ $500 was announced at three o'clock yesterday, and if necessary this offer will be increased to⁸ $1,000. Sincerely yours, (166 standard words)

Dear Sir: Please ship immediately 300 feet of the steel wire advertised some time ago in the local¹ newspapers. I think the price mentioned at the time was $15 for 100 feet. Also, please ship 5 gallons² of the red paint about which I wrote you. This will cost about $3 a gallon and is guaranteed to³ withstand the heat of the summer as well as the frost of the winter.

I should like to have all this material⁴ before Thanksgiving, and if you can arrange to have it all here by that time, I shall greatly appreciate it.⁵ Yours very truly, (103 standard words)

Dear Mr. Brown: From your letter of January 21 I think our recollection of the original¹ negotiations is about the same. The only discrepancy, in my judgment, is the one brought up by² the second and third paragraphs of your letter. Apparently, it is your impression that the question of caring³ for daily mailings did not come up until after you had started on the job.

As a matter of fact, it⁴ was this matter of caring for the daily mailings that brought the job to you several years ago. The mailer⁵ who handled this work originally had done a good enough piece of work on mailing the magazines each month.⁶ He could not, however, keep his records straight when it came to handling our daily mailings. Because of our⁷ dissatisfaction with his method of handling the daily mailings, I started to look for someone else.

I find that you⁸ now have on hand about 80,000 copies of our magazine. In accordance with our practice of paying⁹ for the entire delivery at one time, we have been charged for the mailing of these 80,000 copies. These¹⁰ 80,000 copies represent, at $2 a thousand, the considerable charge of $160,¹¹ for which we have received no return. In addition, these 80,000 copies are worth about¹² $100 in waste paper.

You can see that we cannot very well overlook this item, and I should¹³ appreciate it if we could settle the matter before the end of this year, so that we may have our records straight.¹¹ Yours truly, (282 standard words)

Dear Sir: I have tried every way possible to convince myself that it would be all right for me to ship you the¹ 5,000 feet of lumber requested in your letter of January 8, but I simply can't do it until² you have been able to reduce your present open account.

I know you will be disappointed, but I do³ not want you to feel at all hurt. It isn't a question of confidence in you—our past relations show that. It⁴ just is not discreet in the present trade conditions, to carry an open account of more than $3,000⁵ for a store doing your volume of business. Sincerely yours, (111 standard words)

241. Society, subsequent, substitute, succeed, sympathy, testimonial, testimony, text, unavoidable, universal, variety, verdict, vote, warehouse, wholesale, wife.

242. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Madam: The Universal Book Society is an organization that makes available to book¹ lovers a large variety of the latest and finest books. Each month we submit to the members of the² Universal Book Society a list of books that we consider outstanding. The members vote for the book they³ would prefer for the month's selection, and the verdict of the voters governs our decision. If, for some reason,⁴ the month's selection does not appeal to you, you may substitute another book from the list.

However, instead⁵ of paying the regular price of $3.45 for the regular selection, you will have⁶ to pay $4.95 for the substitution. The additional charge is due to the fact that⁷ we can get the regular selection at a wholesale price from the warehouse, while we must pay the retail price for⁸ the substitution. We are sure, though, that we shall succeed in pleasing you most of the time. If one book does not appeal⁹ to you, subsequent books will.

The Universal Book Society allows a 5 per cent discount from the¹⁰ $3.45 price to those who pay in advance for the entire year's books. In addition, we pay¹¹ the unavoidable 10 cents delivery charge.

The Universal Book Society has many prominent¹² members. If you will turn to page 10 of the enclosed booklet you will find there many testimonials from¹³ famous people who are in entire sympathy with our ideas. As you will see, there is a testimonial¹⁴ from the wife of a former President. Cordially yours, (290 standard words)

Dear Sir: We regret the unavoidable delay in bringing your case to trial. If all goes well, however, I¹ am sure we should be able to get all the testimony in and have the jury bring in a verdict. The judge² already has prepared the text of his charge to the jury. He has asked for a copy of the testimony,³ which we are sending him today.

To be sure that nothing goes wrong, please bring with you all the necessary warehouse⁴ receipts, so that we may present them while the testimony is being taken. Cordially yours, (97 standard words)

Dear Sir: In subsequent issues of our textbook we shall substitute a larger size of type for the one we are¹ now using. The type will be about 20 per cent larger. We are also reducing the price of the text from² $4.20 to $3.65. Our binder succeeded in getting a low wholesale³ price on the binding cloth, and we are thus able to pass this saving along to our customers. We are in⁴ complete sympathy with the feelings of our customers that the cost of texts should be reduced. Cordially yours, (99 standard words)

Dear Sir: We are sorry that the desk you ordered as a gift for your son arrived so badly damaged that you cannot¹ accept it. The railroad agent gave me a receipt acknowledging that the desk was received in perfect² condition from our warehouse. Therefore, it must have been damaged while in the possession of the railroad.

Although we cannot³ be held responsible for the desk once it leaves our warehouse, we know you are anxious to give this desk to your⁴ son, and we are, therefore, sending you today another desk exactly like the first one we sent you. It should reach⁵ you promptly.

If you will telephone the express company to make a special delivery immediately⁶ upon the arrival of the desk, you should have it just in time for your son's birthday.

Please leave the damaged desk⁷ in the hands of the railroad company. We shall deal with them later.

Thank you for writing me so promptly. I assure⁸ you our only desire is to see that you receive the desk in perfect condition. Sincerely yours, (178 standard words)

Dear Sir: This morning I received a letter from your wife giving me the date on which you will pay your account. I¹ appreciate your having her write me. The tone of the letter convinces me that you are honest, and that you² take pride in paying your debts. I know you will meet your obligation promptly.

I am enclosing a stamped envelope³ for your convenience in making the payment when it is due. Cordially yours, (74 standard words)

248. Credit department, shipping department, purchasing department, accounting department, mailing department, billing department.

249. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Sir: As the active head of the accounting department, I am calling a special meeting to see what can¹ be done about standardizing the reports of the salesmen who write us each week. Something must be done and should be² done immediately. I have received many complaints, not only from the members of the accounting department,³ but from the heads of the shipping department, the mailing department, and the credit department, that the reports⁴ are too long and do not give all the necessary facts. It is my thought that the man who selected the present⁵ report blank was not familiar with the work of the accounting department and the other divisions of⁶ our company. If he had been, he would have done a far more effective job.

I had originally planned to⁷ hold this meeting in two weeks. However, in order that we may have something definite on which to work, I am⁸ asking the managers of the different divisions to submit a blank that would eliminate the necessity⁹ for their writing us and wiring us for information every time a report comes in. I think that almost¹⁰ anything these men suggest will be better than what we now have.

I am writing this memorandum to you¹¹ because whatever will be done in the next few days will affect you more than it will affect any other branch¹² of the business. I think, though, that we are nearer than we have ever been to a solution. Cordially yours, (259 standard words)

Dear Madam: The man who stole your purse in the car last week was caught by the detective who was placed in charge of the¹ case. The detective had a long talk with the conductor of the car and then planned what should be done. The detective² directed several of his men to take up the search, and soon one of them detected a rough-looking fellow³ who had a woman's purse sticking out of his pocket. When this fellow was arrested, he acted surprised, but he⁴ was a poor actor, and a few minutes later he confessed.

Your purse is now in our possession, and if you will⁵ mail us a note telling us exactly what was in the bag when it was stolen, we shall be glad to return the⁶ bag to you.

The detective who had charge of your case has been selected for promotion, and beginning April⁷ 15 he will be a captain. Because of his fine work in your case and many other similar cases, he⁸ has earned the promotion and the attractive salary that goes with it. Yours truly, (175 standard words)

Dear Mr. Brown: I am sorry that the tractor which we shipped to you is defective. I have had our shipping¹ department trace this shipment, and I find that all parts were in excellent condition when they left us. We are writing² our Chicago office to send a man to your farm immediately, to see what can be done about getting³ the tractor in good working condition again.

The demand for these tractors has been much greater than we expected,⁴ and consequently our factory is working day and night to catch up. However, even though we are getting⁵ out these tractors quicker than we have done at any previous time, the quality of the parts and the⁶ workmanship has not decreased. In fact, our purchasing department has given us the best materials obtainable⁷ for these tractors. Everything has been done to build the finest and most attractive tractor that can be made for⁸ the lowest possible price. I think you will agree that in this respect our success has been greater than we could⁹ possibly have hoped for.

We realize, of course, that it is not always possible for our friends on the farm to¹⁰ pay cash for these tractors. Consequently, we have selected a man to take charge of our credit department who¹¹ has had years of experience on the farm, a man who is in sympathy with the problems of the farmer. He¹² has done a great deal in solving the financial problems of the farmer.

I am confident that our man will be¹³ able to repair your tractor without too much difficulty, but to be sure that everything turns out all right,¹⁴ we are asking him to let us have a full report of his visit with you. In the meantime, if we can assist¹⁵ you in any way, please be sure to write to us. Sincerely yours, (311 standard words)

Dear Sir: Please accept my personal thanks for the new checking account which you were good enough to open with us¹ today. We appreciate your business, and I know our relations will be beneficial to both of us.

As² you know, we have a savings department for those who care to open such an account. Our safe deposit department³ has a private safe in its vaults ready for your use whenever you need this type of service. Our real estate⁴ department is also well equipped to take care of all your real estate business.

We feel that as a depositor⁵ of ours you are entitled to the best service which can be rendered you by every member of our institution.⁶ We hope you will write us freely and frequently. On our part, we shall try to see that your relations here⁷ are so pleasant that you will not only be satisfied, but pleased—pleased so well that you will recommend our bank to⁸ your friends when the occasion arises. Yours truly, (169 standard words)

253. Reading and Writing Exercise

Dear Sir: Your order was received by the general manager at 9 a.m. this morning. At 3 p.m. the¹ general manager turned your order over to the assistant general manager who has charge of such² orders.

The assistant general manager, however, could not fill your order at once, because, in the first³ place, he did not know whether you wanted the goods sent direct to the Chamber of Commerce Building or to the Board of Education Building. Once in a while the school board prefers to have material of this kind¹ sent C.O.D.⁵

In the second place your order did not give all the necessary information. To be sure that we get⁶ all the necessary information, the general manager asked me to send you our order blank as soon⁷ as possible. As a matter of fact, every few days we receive orders which do not give all the necessary⁸ information, and therefore we have arranged the enclosed blank in such a way that it will, to a great extent,⁹ eliminate errors. The order blank provides a space for the selling price, the market price, as well as the list¹⁰ price.

At the same time there is a column in which you can check whether or not you want the goods sent by first class mail,¹¹ or whether you prefer to have them sent C.O.D. In my opinion, this order blank saves a great deal of time.¹²

Of course, we are anxious to hear from you at once, and therefore we are enclosing a stamped envelope for your reply.¹³ Cordially yours, (263 standard words)

Dear Friend: Each year the Democratic party, the Republican party, and other political parties, send¹ out literature giving their views on the major campaign issues. I always read this literature very² carefully. As a member of the Federal Reserve Board, I must keep up to date with the attitudes of these³ political parties toward the stock market, the curb market, and other financial institutions. In other⁴ words, I must be familiar with what they would do if they were elected to office.

A great deal of the literature⁵ must be studied carefully. On account of the fact that all literature of this nature does not give⁶ the true facts, it is wise to read all available material on the subject in the newspapers. The⁷ Associated Press gives accurate information on the attitudes of the political parties. The Board⁸ of Management of the Associated Press has said over and over again that it will release no⁹ information that has not been verified. At any rate, I have on hand a letter from the chairman of the¹⁰ board assuring me of this. I have personally found the reports of the Associated Press to be accurate¹¹ in every detail. Cordially yours, (227 standard words)

Dear Sir: Do you know a good insurance company that would be willing to send me some printed literature¹ on the endowment policies and the indemnity policies they issue? I have, to some extent, made up² my mind to take out a policy, and if the insurance company will enclose an application blank, I³ shall be glad to take it into consideration.

It is my impression that some organizations will not⁴ accept the application blank of a man who does a great deal of flying. I do a whole lot of traveling⁵ on the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio, and the Illinois Central, but I do very little⁶ flying. I seldom use the Canadian Pacific and the Northern Pacific, as my organization⁷ does little business with the sections covered by those railroads. Once in a while business takes me to Great Britain, but⁸ this does not happen often.

I am asking several other people to send me information on the subject⁹ of insurance. When I have had an opportunity to see what all the different insurance companies¹⁰ have to offer, I shall take great pleasure in discussing the matter with the agent of the company I¹¹ select. Until that time, of course, I can take no action. Yours very truly, (233 standard words)

Dear Sir: We shall be glad to open a credit account for you and give you full credit privileges. The¹ information we have received concerning you is so completely favorable to you personally and as² a business man that we appreciate your choosing us to supply you with the goods you need. Your order is³ going forward today.

As general manager of this company, I assure you of our complete cooperation⁴ at all times and of our efforts to help you realize greater profits through the sale of your goods.

We have⁵ packed with your order our latest assortment of window display cards, with full directions how to make the display⁶ attractive. At stated intervals, you will hear from our business promotion department, which is conducted solely⁷ for our customers.

If, at any time, there is anything this organization can do for you, I should⁸ consider it a personal favor if you will write direct to me. Never have the slightest hesitation⁹ in writing us. Cordially yours (185 standard words)

261. Dear Sir: We appreciate your letter of December 2 regarding your dissatisfaction with the suite¹ included with the lot of furniture that you purchased from us some time ago and that was delivered just before² Thanksgiving.

This suite was included with a shipment that we purchased from a local bankrupt factory, and the³ workmanship and quality do not represent our regular grade of merchandise. It may be that the *deficiencies*⁴ you mention could be satisfactorily remedied, but we are inclined to believe that you would be⁵ better satisfied if you were to exchange this suite for something from our regular line, the quality of which⁶ we could absolutely guarantee.

If you will stop in to see us the next time you are in town, we will make proper⁷ adjustment. We appreciate the value of a customer's good will, and we have no inclination to⁸ expect you to keep a purchase that does not prove at least reasonably satisfactory. We are more concerned⁹ about maintaining our leadership in the business life of this township than we are in forcing on you the¹⁰ ownership of furniture the deficiencies of which we recognize. Very truly yours, (215 standard words) (First occurrence: incl-, -ciency, -ship.)

262. Dear Sir: Thank you for returning the post card attached to our recent circular.

It is a pleasure to *include*¹ samples of several tapestries, from which we hope you will be able to make selections for an *introductory*² order.

We are also glad to include with this letter a copy of our latest catalogue, which is³ not yet in general circulation, and which contains all our prices on furniture.

The inclusion of the⁴ circulars will give you a good introduction to these tapestries. I am inclined to believe that our *proficiency*⁵ in the weaving of these tapestries, combined with the technical efficiency of our mills, will make it⁶ possible for you to get these goods from us cheaper than from any other source of supply. Because of your⁷ membership in the Consumers' League, you probably know that the prices are inclusive of postage but that the special⁸ discount sale for members has been postponed because of the deficiency in our present looms. This *deficiency*⁹ will be remedied within a week or two, as we are preparing for the inclusion in our working unit¹⁰ of the looms from Erie.

It will be gratifying to receive your order. Yours very truly, (217 standard words) (First occurrence: post-, circu-, intr-.)

263. Dear Sir: The invoice covering your shipment of sporting goods was mailed to you yesterday.

We can furnish you with¹ the product that you asked about in any quantity. The regular price of this item is $75,² but when it is ordered in quantities of ten or more, we make the special price of $70. If³ ordered in still larger quantities, we can quote you still lower terms.

Please send us your order as soon as possible,⁴ as we do not know how long this price will be in effect. Very truly yours, (94 standard words)

264. Gentlemen: Please send to our Houston branch 25 crates of grapefruit, 50 crates of oranges, and 60 crates¹ of lemons.

Your circular letter says that we are entitled to a 5 per cent discount, so please bear this in² mind. Very truly yours, (44 standard words)

265. RELAX

It is good for you to relax, to be frivolous, and to let a spirit of fun run riot for a time.¹ Being always dignified causes stagnation of the mind, while a play spirit helps you to do your work. A task is² lighter for the heart's being light.

Neither mind nor body can be kept constantly under tension without impairing³ its usefulness.

The spirit of play keeps one young. Many a trifling annoyance can be turned into a⁴ humorous incident by a merry heart that has readiness to see the amusing side of things. A happy,⁵ cheerful temper promotes good health, and good health promotes a happy, cheerful temper. Don't be afraid of seeming foolish⁶ when you play.

The more serious your occupation, the heavier your cares, the more you need a play spell. However⁷ great you may be, however important your occupation, forget them both for a time. Let yourself loose from⁸ the tension of cares and become a child in spirit. You will live longer and do better work.

Reading and Writing Exercise

271. Gentlemen: The men and the letters that make contacts between your firm and your customers should dress the part. For¹ every interview credited to a salesman, scores of calls are made by your business correspondence and circulars.² A well-groomed letter or circular commands respect and interest.

Your message on a Postal Bond letterhead,³ enclosed in a Postal Bond envelope, does you justice. It cultivates the friend- ship of your customers and confirms⁴ your leadership. Everywhere in America, the famous Postal Bond watermark stands for the best. And business⁵ leaders, recognizing the fact, include the name Postal Bond in giving orders for their fine stationery and⁶ permanent records. Postal Bond does not intrude on the customer's notice. It does not interfere with the⁷ efficiency of your carefully written letter or circular. It serves as the medium by which the thought is⁸ conveyed to the reader without interruption—and that is always the proper relationship of the paper⁹ and the printing.

"Interpreting the Modern Trend in Letterheads" is the title of a new portfolio,¹⁰ containing valuable ideas for business stationery. We shall be very glad to send you a copy. Yours¹¹ truly, (221 standard words) (First occurrence: inter-.)

272. Dear Sir: Have you made your will?

Court records show that one of every two persons who die leaving an estate has made¹ no will.

It is important that every man make a will, because if he does not, he is forcing the state to² interfere in the distribution of his property. Laws change frequently—laws in various states are different.³ The statutes seldom distribute his property as he would have it distributed were he handling the matter⁴ himself.

Whether you have made a will or not you will be interested in reading a booklet entitled "Don't⁵ Postpone Your Will," which has just been published as a service to policyholders in the *Central Union Life*⁶ Insurance Company.

On receipt of the enclosed card we will be pleased to send you a complimentary copy.⁷ No postage is required on the enclosed post card, and there is no obligation involved in making this⁸ request. We should like this to serve as your introduction to the service of the *Central Union Life Insurance*⁹ Company to its clients in this district. Sincerely, (190 standard words) (First occurrence: distr-, centr-.)

273. Dear Mr. Green: Hard work ceases to be hard work when one loves it. One must work for the love of it to succeed in¹ it. To make a success in any profession one must work, and work uninterruptedly, with both mind and² body, but chiefly with the mind.

The importance of keeping one's profession or aim constantly in the mind cannot³ be too strongly emphasized. The path is long and straight and narrow, with no side paths. Concentrated preparation⁴ in school will save or shorten many a rocky road in later years.

Take the short cut now instead of looking for⁵ one later on. Be sure that you can do anything that anyone else can do. Realize that if you don't do⁶ it, somebody else will, and nobody will mourn your elimination from the contest. It is just like any⁷ other contest—winners and losers. You have just as good a chance as anyone else to be included in that⁸ short list of winners!

Make your choice now. There is just as much, and more, opportunity today. There never was a⁹ shortage of opportunity. Don't postpone your success. One may as well be a success at twenty-five as at¹⁰ fifty. The early training and concentration of the mind do the work. Yours truly, (215 standard words) (First occurrence: short-.)

274. Gentlemen: The credit rating that you asked for in your credit inquiry letter No. 231¹ has been investigated.

We find that this person is considered a "good credit risk" up to the amount² of $1,000. He does not abuse his privilege and has always paid promptly.

We are glad to serve you³ in any way possible. Yours truly,
(67 standard words)

275. Gentlemen: Some time ago we wrote you requesting a duplicate copy of your invoice dated November¹ 1, amounting to $24.25. We also sent you a shipper's form to fill in and² return to us, so that we might file a claim for damages received in your freight shipment to us of November 1.³

Please give this your prompt attention, as the time in which we may file claim is limited. Yours very truly, (78 standard words)

282. Dear Sir: Confirming our conversation, we shall be glad to furnish you approximately 40,000, 8¹ by 16 solid cinder blocks at 24 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents each, delivered on the above-named job, subject² to 5 per cent discount, 10 days.

It is understood that 75 per cent of the payments are to be cash³ each week, these payments to be made and guaranteed by the Contractors Title and Trust Company. In a letter⁴ received today, the Trust Company agrees to this arrangement.

It is further understood that the deferred⁵ payments of 25 per cent are to be paid by the contractor's notes drawn in your favor and indorsed by you to⁶ us. These notes are due not later than thirty days after the last shipment, and are to be drawn for not *over*⁷ ninety days. This renewal period is to bear interest at 6 per cent.

It is further agreed between us⁸ that you are to assign to us a sufficient number of houses, the equity of which is held for you by⁹ the Contractors Title and Trust Company, to cover the amount of notes mentioned in the preceding paragraph.¹⁰

There has been no exact parallel to this arrangement in our business dealings with you but the Trust Company's¹¹ fear of a possible overdraft has been overcome by this agreement. It will, they feel, give them *control*¹² of the distribution of the receipts and avoid any chance that you might overestimate your income and¹³ underestimate your costs with a consequent attempt on your part to overdraw your account with them.

This will¹⁴ act as a contract between us. If acceptable, please indicate your agreement by signing on the blank line¹⁵ at the bottom of this letter. Very truly yours, (309 standard words)
(First occurrence: under-, over-, aggr-, para-, contr-.)

283. Gentlemen: Last week I purchased a suit at your store and paid cash for it. It did not fit exactly, so I left¹ it for alterations. You were to have it sent to me the following day.

It came today, but there was a C.²O.D. of $45 on it. Correct this mistake and send the suit to me without further delay.³ Very truly yours, (62 standard words)

284. Gentlemen: We thank you for your remittance in payment of our invoice of December 20, which we are¹ receipting and returning to you. We are enclosing some order blanks for your convenience in ordering additional² supplies in the future.

We promise you that any orders received by us will be filled promptly. Very³ truly yours, (62 standard words)

285. Dear Mr. Guthrie: Upon investigating your credit standing we find you to be what we term a "very¹ good risk."

We shall be glad to extend credit to you, and cordially invite you to visit our store at your² earliest convenience. Let's get acquainted.

I am sure our business relationships will be entirely satisfactory.³ Very truly yours, (65 standard words)

286. Dear Sir: I hold for collection against you the balance due, including interest, on a note, signed by you on¹ August 25, of this year, to E. B. Lowe and Son, for $91.50.

Before proceeding² further in the matter, I am giving you an opportunity to pay the note without suit, with its added³ costs and inconveniences.

Please let me hear from you as soon as possible. Very truly yours, (77 standard words)

287. SAFETY

An improper idea of the safety of airplane travel is obtained through the unfortunate fact that the¹ average citizen hears only of the crashes and fatalities and very little, if anything, of the² thousands upon thousands of miles flown without any accident whatsoever.

The reliability of³ the airways for safe transportation is well illustrated when one considers that merchandise insurance rates¹ from London to various European cities carry a preferential rate of from 70 to 35⁵ per cent less than rates obtaining for surface transportation.

Although statistics on safety may have little⁶ effect upon the air-mindedness of some individuals, yet it is quite interesting to note that for⁷ every crash many thousands of miles have been flown with complete safety. (151 standard words)

288. Dear Sir: I regret, more than these few words will express, to be forced to answer the roll call in this manner. My¹ absence from this meeting is unavoidable, and the loss is mine. Is it necessary to say, "Count on me next² time"? Regretfully yours, (44 standard words)

Reading and Writing Exercise

296. Gentlemen: A short time ago, in response to an ever-increasing pressure from our distributors, we¹ printed color charts for the standard colors on the Puritan and Plymouth models.

Very frequently, we receive² letters from distributors and dealers complaining that they are unable to answer the question, "What are the³ standard color combinations on the different models?"

Of course, this question may be vaguely answered by⁴ referring to the cars as finished in brown or blue or whatever the color may be. And in most cases, even⁵ if the terms "Postal gray" or "Paradise blue" were used, the customer would still have no conception of the colors,⁶ because it is always hard to measure colors in words. That's where these timely little folders fit in. They not⁷ only give the names of the various colors but they also contain samples. These samples enable the customer⁸ to examine the colors at his leisure and to assure himself that he is getting exactly the⁹ color combination he desires.

Included with a circular letter, the chart can be used as a mailing piece¹⁰ to a list of customers. Attractively priced at 3 cents each, the charts should be ordered in quantities *commensurate*¹¹ with your needs. The blank will be found in the back of the booklet enclosed in this package. Very truly yours,¹² (240 standard words) (First occurrence: -sure.)

297. Gentlemen: Thank you for your order for one gross of handbags.

After checking our records, we find that we have¹ in stock at present only one-half gross of the style you wish. Rather than delay the shipment, we are sending you² one-half gross by express today. The rest will go forward within a few days, in all likelihood, although we may not³ be able to send them until Monday. We appreciate this opportunity to introduce these handbags⁴ in your neighborhood, and we are really distressed that we are unable to fill your order completely.

We hope⁵ that handling your order in this manner will not seriously inconvenience you. Yours very truly, (118 standard words) (First occurrence: -hood, -ward.)

298. FOLLOW OUT A PLAN

He who every morning plans the transactions of the day and follows out that plan carries a thread that will guide him¹ through the most busy life. The orderly distribution of his time is like a ray of light which darts itself through² all his occupations. But where no plan is laid, where the use of time is surrendered merely to chance, all things lie³ huddled together in one awkward muddle, which admits of neither distribution nor review. Victor Hugo. (77 standard words) (First occurrence: trans-.)

299. AN ARTIST

Almost anybody can do business fairly well. Many men can do business very well. A few can do¹ business superbly well. But the man who not only does his work superbly well but adds to it the personal touch² through great zeal, patience, and persistence, transforming it into something unique, individual,³ distinct, and unforgettable, is an artist. Elbert Hubbard. (67 standard words) (First occurrence: super-.)

300. Dear Sir: Today we received your shipment of cream, for which we thank you. We hope that you will be well pleased with your¹ returns. If for any reason you are not entirely pleased, be sure to write us and let us know, because we are anxious² to correct any mistake we may make.

If you happen to know any other cream producers who you think³ might be interested in securing more for their cream, please give us their names. Yours very truly, (77 standard words) (First occurrence: -ure.)

301. Gentlemen: We regret to learn from your letter of November 14 that the tubes recently sent you were not¹ of the correct size. We have meanwhile forwarded 1 gross of our No. 165 test tubes, 7² by $\frac{7}{8}$ inches, which we hope will answer your requirements.

Credit for the apparatus was issued³ on November 18 and has undoubtedly been received at the present time.

Immediately upon⁴ receipt of the test tubes you are returning to us, credit will be issued in full.

We are now making an *inquiry*⁵ which will soon result in the disclosure of the reasons for this interference with the usual *efficiency*⁶ of our Distributing Department. I hope these awkward errors will not interrupt the pleasant business⁷ relationship which has existed between us for so many years, and I am inclined to think that we have now⁸ eliminated any chance that such errors may occur again.

Thank you for this opportunity of⁹ serving you. Yours very truly, (185 standard words) (First occurrence: -quire.)

307. Gentlemen: Enclosed is a signed copy of the contract and agreement for a 5,000-pack order of¹ special business cards, given by you to our representative.

We understand that you desire to get the cards² before your departure on your spring trip through the central states.

Sketches for the various special features of this³ card will be submitted for your approval promptly. I am inclined to feel that it would be better not to use⁴ pictures of your fixtures because the mixture of type and pictures would spoil the appearance of the cards. Yours very⁵ truly, (101 standard words)

308. Gentlemen: Let's get right after spring orders.

A few minutes of your time spent in revising the mailing list we¹ used last season will probably mean many early orders.

Just cross off the names of those whom we can no longer² interest—and don't fail to add all the newcomers!

The advertising this spring is the finest³ ever, but success or failure depends entirely on the accuracy of your list.

We know you will take care of it very⁴ promptly. The first lists we receive will be the first to be taken care of.

Thank you! Yours truly, (96 standard words)

309. Gentlemen: We shall soon place an order for 50,000 letterheads similar to the one on which this¹ letter is written.

Please quote us your best price on a lot of 50,000, lithographed on 20-pound bond paper.²

Please write me whether you think the lithographic process will enable you to manufacture these letterheads³ any cheaper than you could make them if you print them from type. You should be able to save money if you use⁴ lithography because then you can photograph my present letterhead, without having to set any type.

My⁵ stenographer has asked me to warn you that these letterheads must be printed on a paper suitable for⁶ mimeograph work, as we use the mimeograph a great deal in our office.

When we come to an agreement as⁷ to the method of printing and the prices, please submit a carbon copy. Yours truly, (155 standard words) (First occurrence: -ograph.)

310. Gentlemen: From the enclosed article we learn that pencils are to be manufactured from one of your by-products.¹

We are penholder manufacturers, and we should like to learn whether your material could be used² satisfactorily in making penholders.

As we have no equipment here for chemical work, your material³ would have to reach us in such condition that it can be used with practically no change. From reading the⁴ article I should judge that your material would be economical as well as practical. If this is the⁵ case, your sales should be large, because our work is typical of the work done in scores of similar factories.⁶ Therefore, it is logical to think that if we can use it economically all these other factories could⁷ also find it economical.

It would be a pleasure to hear from you. If you are not yet ready to⁸ consider this suggestion, we hope that you will let us hear from you when you are ready. Yours very truly, (178 standard words) (First occurrence: -cle.)

311. Dear Sir: We have been waiting to have our reports and records brought up to date, so that we might inform you of the¹ results of the telegrams sent out through your office, soliciting aid for the distressed flood sufferers in your² district.

Of course, the local papers threw open their columns with great kindness for the cause, and the³ telegrams sent out right after the country began to realize the enormity of the disaster had⁴ splendid pulling power. To be exact, out of the 116 telegrams sent, we received exactly⁵ 100 direct returns, and we are constantly getting additional contributions.

These *telegrams*⁶ were naturally sent to a very select list, and their contributions represented approximately⁷ one-third of the donations to the good cause.

There was no organization, no other solicitation,⁸ except these telegrams and the newspaper articles mentioned above.

We are highly gratified with the part⁹ the telegrams played in impressing upon the public the need of quick action. When you have time, I should like to¹⁰ have an opportunity to consult with you about a program of further work along these lines. Apparently¹¹ by concentrating on a small list of those inclined to help persons in distress we can always hope for similar¹² results. Very truly yours, (245 standard words) (First occurrence: -sult, -gram.)

Reading and Writing Exercise

317. Gentlemen: Your inquiry of December 8, asking for further details in regard to the *Practical*¹ system of electric floor maintenance, is appreciated.

Practical machines are used with *equal efficiency*² to scrub, polish, and refinish all types of floors and floor coverings. There are eight models of Practical machines,³ each different in price, design, capacity, and size—a Practical machine for your requirements, suited⁴ to your floor area.

May we have some additional information as to your floor conditions, type of floors,⁵ and electric current. The enclosed card is for this purpose. If you will give us this information, we can then⁶ prepare a schedule for you based on your actual floor conditions. This schedule will convince you that our electric machines⁷ will gradually pay for themselves, because the annual upkeep is so low. Yours very truly, (157 standard words) (First occurrence: electr-, -city, -ual.)

318. Gentlemen: Since our last letter to you we have decided to separate the East Coast into four distinct¹ territories.

The state of Maine is to be one of these territories, and a dealer at Portland² will be appointed to handle all transactions there.

Before we present our proposal to you, we should like very³ much to have you answer the following questions:

1. Have you space for the storage of repair parts,⁴ and possibly a consigned shovel, fully equipped and ready for immediate shipment to prospects in your⁵ territory?

2. How many salesmen have you, and are they covering the entire state of Maine?

3. How⁶ long have you been selling to contractors?

This information will enable us to present you with our dealer⁷ contract for consideration.

Our dealer contract provides a very substantial commission on the sale of⁸ each machine, a 10 per cent commission on all repair parts sold within the territory, and a liberal⁹ policy of advertising to all prospects in the territory.

We have introduced our machines¹⁰ into eight states in the short space of three months, and all machines placed thus far are producing splendid records and¹¹ creating an interest that indicates a considerable volume of business in the territories they¹² reach.

We are now in a position to manufacture shovels and cranes at the rate of one a day, thus *assuring*¹³ you of shipments on the same day that orders are received.

May we hear from you promptly? Yours very truly, (278 standard words) (First occurrence: -spect.)

319. Dear Sir: Did you ever arrange to meet somebody downtown at exactly two o'clock and then hustle down there¹ at exactly the right time only to find your friend among the missing? If you have ever done that, standing first² on one foot and then on the other while you searched your brain to remember whether it really was two o'clock and³ whether it really was that particular street corner on which you had agreed to meet—then you can appreciate⁴ what we have just gone through.

Last year we sold you coal, yet this fall when the first cold winds began whistling around the⁵ corners and the telephone began to ring all day long with people wanting more of that fine coal we sell, we have⁶ had no order from you.

To tell you the truth, we are all rather worried here at the office. Every one of us,⁷ from the person who took your order over the telephone to the driver who delivered your coal, tried to give⁸ the kind of service you wanted to have.

And now it is past the middle of January and another year⁹ has started, and we have not had any order from you. We considered you one of the family and had hopes¹⁰ of meeting you every fall and winter. So here we are waiting on the corner, so to speak, and we shall be¹¹ overjoyed to see you or to hear from you. Very cordially yours, (231 standard words)

320. Gentlemen: Your representative called on us recently and told us about the new burlap bag you are now¹ offering to the trade at greatly reduced prices. He left several samples with us.

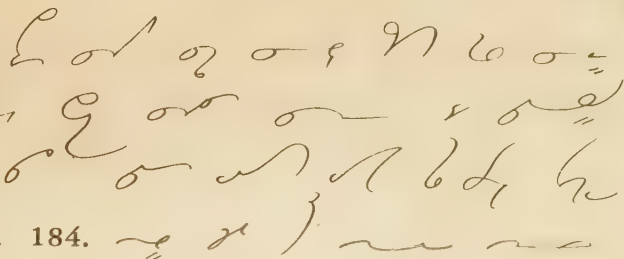

We have been so greatly² impressed with the stock in the samples that we wish to enter our order for 10,000 bags, printed similar³ to our order of September 30.

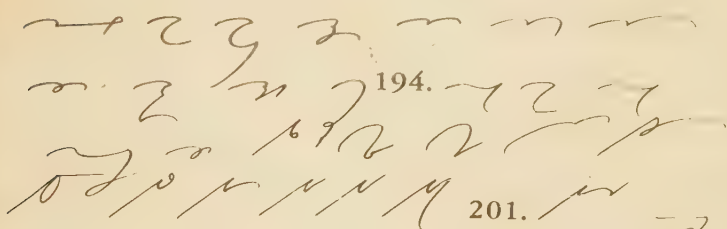

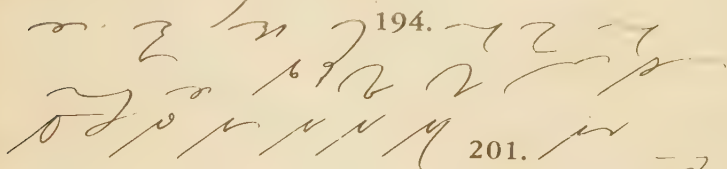

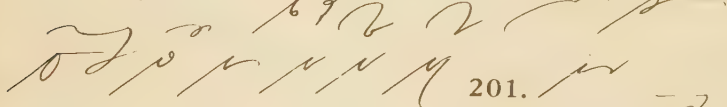

We shall have our purchasing department issue an order covering⁴ this, and shall appreciate it greatly if you will rush this shipment along.

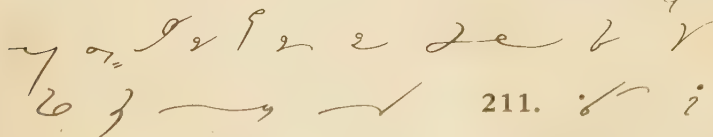

Please acknowledge receipt of this letter.⁵ Yours very truly, (104 standard words)
